

EUPHAnxt Newsletter - April 2020

Dear EUPHAnxters,

much has changed since our last newsletter. As you know, the new Coronavirus has sadly become part of our daily lives, as Europe is currently the epicentre of the pandemic. Our daily routines have been upended, our plans have been messed up, and the necessary social distancing and self-isolation measures have been tackling our "normal" social interactions.

The Covid-19 pandemic is putting healthcare systems across Europe under an unprecedented pressure. The reality of this crisis has shown that we are all in this together. We would like to thank all those who are working unrelentingly and resolutely to contain the disease and care of those in need. Thousands of young professionals in our continent are working relentlessly, and to them go our admiration and support.

Let's stand together against the Coronavirus, and let's be there for each other both now and later, when the pandemic will be finally over.

Till then, stay safe.

Promoting public health is now more important than ever

In light of the COVID-19 outbreak, the European Public Health Week (EUPHW) will focus on 'Joining forces for healthier populations'.

Governments, scientists, health professionals and the civil society must work together to tackle the pandemic and raise awareness about public health.

WE WANT YOU!
for the EUPHW

[Reminder]
🎥 We want your clip! 🎥

We are preparing a teaser trailer for the EUPHW which will be shown at the (virtual) opening of this year's edition.

Send us a short video (10 seconds max.) giving an example about how you are 'joining forces' for healthier populations

and then end your video saying

"I wish you a good European Public Health week" in your own language.

Your video will be part of the official trailer of the EUPHW 2020.

Send your video to: euphwvideo@gmail.com

(Deadline: 12/04/20)
