

EU Society for Prevention in Research

1st EUSPR Conference: Prevention Science, an “outsider inside” Public Health

This pre-conference workshop is dedicated to the constitution of the European Society for Prevention Research (www.euspr.org); a scientific organization with a mission to promote quality and visibility of European research targeting behavioural determinants of health. In the workshop's first session (Wednesday afternoon) keynote lectures and discussions on this theme will take place. The second session (Thursday morning) will focus on issues of organization and action-taking for the EUSPR.

The workshop is open to scientists, practitioners and decision-makers in this public health area regardless of their participation in the EUPHA conference. Detailed information including the meeting's agenda will be available closer to the date. For more information visit www.euspr.org
